

2Revised: 15 April 2013; Published: 15 April 2013

DIVINE INTERRUPTIONS

I heartily apologize for not listing Sources or References attributed to these gems for assimilating. I read two to three books at a time, daily scripture and commentaries, the breviary, bulletins, Vatican Information Service daily, postal mail, Internet Favorites, a few weeklies, newsletters and newspapers, and have for years hence... well, you see my point! (You are invited to click Read! Read! Read! and see for yourself!)

I never dreamed that I would be able to share this wonderful verbiage on this link and now, alas, I cannot go back and find all! Just enjoy and know that He is whom we seek by any verbiage we can read, apostolic action we can do and hearts that know no bounds in seeking Him, our Bread of Life and Source of all that is Right and Good.

Divine interruptions, perhaps what we call interruptions, God calls grace. Could it be that part of living in peace is faithfully responding to interruptions?

When you finally allow yourself to trust joy and embrace it, you will find that you dance with everything.

Things which matter most must never be at the mercy of things which matter least.

Diving interruptions, perhaps what we call interruptions, God calls grace. Could it be that part of living in peace is faithfully responding to interruptions?